USM UNIVERSITY OF Southern Maine

UNIVERSITY OF
SOUTHERN MAINE
FACTS*2001 – 2002

University of Southern Maine was created in 1970 by the merger of two state supported institutions under the name University of Maine at Portland-Gorham, and renamed the University of Southern Maine in 1978. Lewiston/Auburn College was created as the third campus of the University of Southern Maine in 1988.

One of seven campuses in Maine's public university system, the University of Southern Maine has the largest student enrollment in the State. The University of Southern Maine is the comprehensive metropolitan campus of the University of Maine System and is one of its two graduate centers.

The fundamental focus of its mission is teaching, research, and public service for the benefit of the citizens of Maine and society in general. The University of Southern Maine responds to the special needs of, and provides leadership for, southern Maine's many cultural, health, human service, business, and technological institutions and activities. The academic programs of the University of Southern Maine provide an undergraduate education giving every student a solid foundation in the liberal arts and sciences, while master, professional, and selected doctoral degrees and research programs emphasize the integration of theory and practice.

In complying with the letter and spirit of applicable laws and in pursuing its own goals of pluralism, the University of Southern Maine shall not discriminate on the grounds of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, national origin or citizenship status, age, disability, or veterans status in employment, education, and all other areas of the University. The University provides reasonable accommodations to qualified individuals with disabilities upon request. Questions and complaints about discrimination in any area of the University should be directed to the campus compliance officer, Kathleen Roberts, at 222 Deering Avenue, 207-780-5094/TTY207-780-5646.
