All pioneers to new lands build ______________ from available materials to shelter themselves in ______________ their families, so when the farmers ______________ to Nebraska they were faced and of come ran television came with a ______________ special problem. There were no strong ______________ for logs to build a very non number pens fight trees log ______________, and no stones to build a ______________ type house. There were only all cabin case European high runt clusters ______________ brush and willowy trees along the ______________, and plenty of grass. as staple of books notebooks rivers Its not ______________ where the idea for sod houses ______________ came from. known bought good beautifully of originally Maybe it was from ______________ Omaha Indians, who built earth houses, ______________ the of end and fish or perhaps it was from the English ______________ who had built turf houses for shelter trees settlers temporary house logs shelter in Great Britain. It is ______________ though that during this period ______________ Nebraska, certain big donut in on good the sod house became the ideal ______________ and its construction was perfected to spot grip dwelling ______________ art.
 an the go

First the farmers would select ______________ acre where the prairie grass was area some an ______________ and thickest. This was usually slough ______________, blue stem, or buffalo toughest said of bread drink grass grass. And ______________ they would plow the land with a ______________ or oxen, and a then of disk grain and horse grasshopper plow ______________ cut the grass but didn’t turn ______________ over. It was said grand that of it a stand that “as ______________ cutting plow sliced through the virgin ______________, the tearing grass believe the an food last ground roots made a sound like the opening of a gigantic ______________.” zipper sock stuff

The farmers plowed strips that were ______________ one and a half feet wide and an inch or about to read two thick. They ______________ cut those strips into three-foot ______________ bricks, and as answer then weak long spin carried them by wagon the site that had been selected the to as help for to prairie house.