General Requirements of the Literacy Capstone Project

The Literacy Capstone Project is a requirement for graduation in the Certificate of Advanced Study (CAS) Program. The Capstone is an opportunity for students to work on a literacy project that is of particular interest to them. The goal is for students to apply the skills and competencies they have acquired to a literacy problem in a professional setting.

Completion of the Capstone occurs under the direction of the faculty member assigned to EDU 665, CAS Directed Study, while the student is enrolled in EDU 665. The project requires both written and oral components. All students must complete the EDU 665 CAS Directed Study Approval Form and submit to the Capstone faculty member at the beginning of the semester in which the student is enrolled in EDU 665 (usually during the first week of the semester).

In order to satisfy the written component, students must write a paper. While there are no formal guidelines on its length, it should follow the guidelines of the American Psychological Association Publication Manual, Sixth Edition (2010). The oral component is satisfied by presenting the project at a professional meeting (conference, faculty meeting), seminar, or alternative venue approved by the Capstone faculty member. Students are required to give a 15 minute oral presentation summarizing their Capstone projects. The presentation should include appropriate visuals and handouts.

The Capstone is typically done during the last semester of study. The semester prior to completing the Capstone, CAS students may choose to enroll in EDU 634, Seminar in Literacy Research. This course is flexible enough to allow for the development of a Capstone idea and proposal. However, enrollment in EDU 634 is not guaranteed and must be approved by the instructor.

Possible Capstone Projects

Grant Proposal or Research Plan

The Capstone could be a grant or research proposal. The project would include a clear statement of the research question, the specific aims of the proposal, review of the literature, study design, methods of analysis, implications and significance of the work (as applicable). The research question would be one that is encountered in professional work such as the evaluation of a literacy intervention.

Research

The Capstone could involve the collection, analysis, and interpretation of data to address a literacy issue. The project would include sections on the research question, review of the literature, research methods, conclusions, and implications. Please note that the appropriate university approval will need to be obtained for such a project.
Literacy Initiative
The Capstone could involve the development of a plan to implement a school-wide literacy initiative. The initiative would include critical issues such as management, fiscal, ethical and logistical aspects.

Analysis of a Literacy Problem
The Capstone could be an in-depth analysis of an important issue in literacy education. The project would include sections that clearly describe the problem, assess the problem and its magnitude, evaluate its causes and determinants, and discuss prevention and intervention strategies.

Curriculum Manual/Instructional Materials
The Capstone could include the creation of a literacy curriculum manual or a set of instructional materials. Options include a traditionally authored text in a Word document, an online course, audiovisual on DVD, computer software, or weblog. The purpose, audience, and proposed use of this program should be clearly stated. (For example, materials may be written for publication by NCTE’s Theory and Research into Practice curriculum series.)
