Conditions Governing Reproduction, Publication or Use of Materials in the University of Southern Maine's Special Collections

1. Permission will be granted for a single use in a single edition of a single publication or a single exhibition. Additional language editions and new editions or exhibitions will be considered upon application. Photographic material may not be reused without written permission of the University of Southern Maine Library. The University of Southern Maine Library will not grant exclusive rights to the use of materials in its Special Collections to any party or parties, and does not surrender its own rights to publish the material or to grant permission to others to use the material.

2. Decision to permit use of items from the Library's Special Collections will be made in compliance with USM Library Special Collections procedures, and with due regard for the nature and condition of the item. Retrieval and return of material must be arranged and supervised by USM Library Special Collections staff.
3. The expense of using any item from the Library's Special Collections is the responsibility of the applicant.
4. If a reproduction of a photograph, other graphic image, or object from the Library's special collection is cropped in any way, the caption must include the word "detail". Nothing may be superimposed on photographs made available through the USM Library Special Collections Department.
5. Credit must be given in the publication or production using the following formula: Name of individual collection, Name of meta-collection, Special Collections or Jean Byers Sampson Center for Diversity in Maine, University of Southern Maine Libraries.

Citation to be used: Jean Byers Sampson Papers, Jean Byers Sampson Center for Diversity in Maine, Special Collections, University of Maine Libraries

6. Special Collections requests a complimentary copy of all publications that rely heavily on its collections.
7. Responsibility for compliance with copyright law and observation of other publication rights, including literary rights, rests with the applicant and not with the University of Southern Maine. Applicant assumes full and complete responsibility for any infringement of copyright law or other publication rights which may grow out of his/her use or publication of the material.
8. The USM Library reserves the right to deny use of its Special Collections to any party or parties failing to comply with these regulations.

I agree to abide by the conditions for reproduction and use, as stated above.
