PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

The Office of Educator Preparation is the professional education unit responsible for oversight and administration of Educator Preparation at the University.

The School of Education & Human Development, in partnership with colleges throughout the university and in the field, offers students opportunities to earn a teaching certificate and/or a degree at the undergraduate or graduate level. Different program options are also offered at the Certificate of Advance Study levels. Our programs are characterized by quality and integrity and meet the highest standards set by professional accrediting bodies.

Undergraduate Students:
USM undergraduate students pursue their major through a college, and then choose the content area for their teaching based on the major. Students identify early in their major if they also want to pursue teacher certification. At the end of the student’s undergraduate career at USM, he or she could have a bachelor’s degree, major and teacher certification in one of the content areas related to their major.
