Art, Equity, & Education
AED 399 62897 / 599 62898
Online Summer Class
July 8 – August 2
Taught by Rachel Somerville

This course will introduce students to theory and practice in the field of art education relating to the topics of equity and cultural diversity, especially as it connects to art education, contemporary art practice, and research. Students will be encouraged to explore their personal understandings about cultural diversity in art education and will be assisted in developing socially-just art teaching strategies for the classroom and/or community arts contexts. The following interconnected topics will be explored, including but not limited to; culturally relevant/responsive teaching, visual culture, social justice, conceptions of culture, equity in education, and cultural diversity in contemporary art.
